Marshfield Clinic Health System AmeriCorps Afterschool - <http://marshfieldclinicamericorps.org/>

AmeriCorps, often referred to as a domestic Peace Corps, places individuals within communities to spend a year of their life serving others. Marshfield Clinic Center for Community Outreach is a national service grantee that places individuals with afterschool host sites across Northwestern, WI.

Marshfield Clinic Health System AmeriCorps Afterschool program description ~ this program places individuals with afterschool programs throughout northwestern Wisconsin to strengthen programming. Individuals serve as part of a case management team, working directly with at-risk, school-aged children. They provide homework assistance during the school year and organize physical activities and/or provide information on nutrition, personal/social skills or healthy active programming for the enrolled children.

During a typical day of service the member may initially report to the school the youth attend. While at school, the member may supervise a classroom of youth who need additional assistance with homework or other activities. Following the school day, the member reports to the afterschool program site. While there the member may chaperone youth during recreational times, coordinating sports or social activities. They will also provide direct support to the youth they case manage by giving homework assistance, talking with the parents of those youth, or sending updates home about progress being made. Members will build a "portfolio" for each youth, tracking success. The member will also coordinate and complete the youth's enrollment into a database and conduct parent and teacher surveys throughout the year.
